SCP-7843: The Amazon

Posted originally on the fanfiction.lol at https://fanfiction.lol/works/1390.

Rating:	Mature
Archive Warnings:	Graphic Depictions Of Violence, Queerphobia
Category:	Femslash (F/F)
Fandom:	SCP Foundation
Character:	Original Character(s)
Additional Tags:	Amazons, Primitivist Fantasy, Tropical Island, Nature Magic, Plant Monster, Modified Canon - Mythical Creatures
Language:	English
Stats:	Published: 2026-11-06 Words: 2,364 Chapters: 1/1

SCP-7843: The Amazon

by JungleDrums

Summary

"Amazonian" warrior from unknown anomalous zone.

Object Class: Safe

Notes

See the end of the work for notes

https://pin.it/1cPAYWn1K

SCP-7843 in her containment unit

Special Containment Procedures: No biological male personnel (except authorized D Class) are to be admitted into SCP-7834's containment units under any circumstances. This includes Male To Female Trans personnel. SCP-7843 will attack and CANNOT be reasoned with.

Biological female personnel are to wear full body environment suits complete with face shielding and gas mask. An additional shielding girdle is to be worn, protecting the abdomen, groin, and rectum. Research personnel are to have armed MTF Theta-4 escorts in teams of no less than four. Armaments are to include one electrical stun gun per unit, including the researcher. Three of the escorts is to carry a single CO2-powered tranquilizer dart rifle, while the fourth carries a duel flamethrower/fire extinguisher. No more than one researcher is allowed inside the containment unit at a time. Research teams are to maintain a distance of at least 4 meters from SCP-7843. No physical contact is allowed under any circumstances.

Per Dr. Whittle's specifications, SCP-7843's containment unit is a specialized terrarium designed to simulate a tropical rainforest. It is a 3.716122sq meter reinforced warehouse. It is populated with at least 4543 different species of fish, plants, insects, birds, and small mammals. The terrarium is self sustaining ecosystem, and is inspected once every six months by specialists. The terrarium's walls are windowless, and made of smooth concrete. The ceiling is electrified. An elaborate sprinkler and lighting system sits under it to simulate rain and sunlight. Over 2000 infrared cameras are hidden through out the terrarium. SCP-7843 is to be monitored at all times in case of contact with SCP-7843-C or escape attempts.

The Terrarium is located at Site-17. It is separate from the main facility, and under heavy armed guard since INCIDENT 3. It is currently being reinforced with experimental dimensional stop gap shielding, to prevent further incursions from SCP-7843-C.

SCP-7843's secondary containment unit is a standard eight by eight cell, with basic amenities. It is adjacent to the Terrarium. She is to be held there during Dr. Whittle's inspections or for bad behavior.

SCP-7843 is not allowed outside of her containment units without MTF supervision and restraints. She is not allowed contact with other SCP objects, especially humanoid females.

In the event of a containment break, MTF troops are authorized to use lethal force to defend against SCP-7843. Object should be considered armed and extremely dangerous at all times.

Description: SCP-7843 appears to be an adult female woman, 203.2cm tall and 56kg in weight. She appears to be between the ages of twenty to twenty four. Ethnically she resembles a fusion of Filipino, Polynesian, and South Amerindian, though DNA testing has shown no connection to any of these ethnicities. The most telling features of SCP-7843 are her pointed “elf like” ears, sharp claw like finger and toe nails, and fang canines. When agitated her eyes glow with an unnatural fuchsia colored light. She self identifies her race as [DATA EXPUNGED]. She calls herself “Miki, Daughter of Witch Chief [redacted], Brave of the [redacted] tribe”.

SCP-7843 refuses to wear any clothes other than a personal red breechclout, as well as an assortment of handmade jewelry of wooden beads, cowrie shells, and fangs. She will often crush ucuru berries and decorate her body with red paint.

Her weapons: a bark longbow with feather decoration, obsidian knife with fang hilt, twenty flint tipped arrows, and hide quiver have been confiscated. She is not allowed to recreate her weapons (or any others) on penalty of being confined to her secondary cell for three days.

SCP-7843 is unnaturally agile and gymnastic. She can run up to 56.32 kilometers per hour and leap over 7 meters in a single bound. She is able to go for periods without eating longer than a normal human, though she still requires regular hydration. She is highly resistant to physical pain, and shows a normal fear of uncontrolled fire. She does not like temperatures below 21.11 Celsius, and can likely freeze to death. She boasts a keen sense of smell, and is able to identify plants and animals by scent. Her pupils can dilate inversely like a cat’s, yet she has exceptional night vision as evidenced during the Terrarium's night cycles.

SCP-7843 is a keen marksmen, able to fire a longbow in rapid succession, hitting eight out of ten bullseyes. Despite having no muscle definition, she is able to bench press 98kg.

It is unknown at this time the rate at which she ages. She claims her people can live up to 200 years or more. Her body radiates [redacted] at a rate of [DATA EXPUNGED]. She identifies the energy as “Mana” or life force, and can absorb this energy from other life forms through physical contact. She frequently expresses a desire to share this energy with biological females through intimate physical contact.

Research has linked these superhuman abilities to a vine plant organism (SCP-7843-A) infested through out SCP-7843’s body. When agitated or in close proximity of a humanoid female, SCP-7843’s eyes will glow fuchsia. She will regurgitate a vine tendril measuring 304.8cm in length. SCP-7843 will attempt to insert the tendril into the throat or other orifice of the female. This process infects the host with a seedling, like the one SCP-7843 is infected with.

The infestation process takes two minutes. Greenish veins can be witnessed erupting all over the victim’s body starting from the point of entry. Upon completion the veins recede and the host’s eyes glow like SCP-7843. The host then becomes allied with SCP-7843, forsaking whatever bonds or loyalty they had previously. The host is not enthralled to SCP-7843 personally, but rather both are enthralled to the anomalous force that resides in SCP-7843-B.

Due to SCP-7843’s volatile and defensive nature, exploratory surgery is inaccessible at this time. Exploratory surgery of D Class Hosts have thus far brought inconclusive results, as the vine organism reflexively kills the host before surgeons can begin.

It is not known whether this infection process works the same on biological males, as SCP-7843 butchers any D Class males put into the Terrarium. Dr. Whittle has forbidden her from making tools and decorations from her victims remains, to which she has begrudgingly agreed to. The tools and decorations she had previously constructed have been confiscated. When asked directly to infect males she refuses. SCP-7843 expresses a spiritually driven bigotry towards the male gender and biological sex.

According to her beliefs, all men are the agents of [redacted], a devil figure in her tribe’s mythology, opposed to her tribe's goddess. She refers to herself as a daughter of [redacted], whom she describes as a deity of war, nature, and femininity; the embodiment of SCP-7843-B.

Upon initial containment in a standard cell, SCP-7843 became unresponsive; refusing to communicate or move from a corner where she curled up and wept. Dr. Whittle requisitioned to upgrade her containment into a full terrarium where she has space to roam about in a simulation of her natural habitat. This has greatly alleviated some of SCP-7843's distress. SCP-7843 often expresses a desire to return to SCP-7843-B, often threatening research staff that her "sisters" will eventually come for her, and kill who ever is holding her captive. [SEE INCIDENT 2-3]

SCP-7843 is aloof with people she is unfamiliar with, and will often hide from research teams. Once trust is established however, she becomes very talkative. Her facial memory is exceptional, though she admits she's terrible with names. SCP-7843 is capable of speaking and understanding English, Japanese, Spanish, French, German, Mandarin, Korean, and many other languages.

SCP-7843 states that raiding bands like the one she was assigned to frequently leave SCP-7843-B to bring back captives. Female captives from various countries are and have been forcibly inducted into her people's tribe. The captive is implanted with SCP-7843-A as part of a religious ceremony. It is from this method that her and her people came to understand so many languages. Captives brought to SCP-7843-B are not transformed into SCP-7843's race. Her race is spawned from "plant pod cocoons" as infants, at the base of The sacred [redacted] Tree. Once made into a host, the captive lives the rest of their life with the tribe as an aboriginal hunter gather.

When asked about male captives fates, she will only snicker obnoxiously. She has cryptically stated, "The [redacted] Tree gets hungry."

SCP-7843 has hinted at a subconscious hive mind network between her and her tribe-sisters. Anything she sees and hears, they do too. While they each have their own personality and names, the hive mind will sometimes override their personality. Their eyes will glow fuchsia, they will feel no pain, and become even more ferocious and coordinated in battle. SCP-7843 compared her people in this state to that of rampaging fire ants.

SCP-7843 practices a stone age lifestyle that subsists of hunting, gathering, and very rudimentary subsistence farming. She is illiterate and cannot be convinced of the practicality of learning. She exhibits stark terror and rage when exposed to technology such a televisions or computers. She will destroy and bury them, calling them unholy or abrogations against nature.

She is however a clever woodsman and survivalist. Within two weeks she was able to identify edible from non edible mushrooms, and which species of plant could be used medicinally. She had the entire Terrarium memorized within a month, and is constantly finding new weak spots in the Terrarium's security system (she destroys cameras where ever she finds them). Her escape attempts have only earned her trips to her secondary containment unit, or electrical shocks.

She can be observed via camera; chasing after capybara, peccary, and tapir, when not fishing with her bare hands. While reinforced plexiglass observation booths have been installed around the Terrarium, SCP-7843 goes out of her way to avoid them. Her favorite fruit is papaya, and she loves chocolate. Her people cultivate both sugar and cocoa on SCP-7843-B as edible crops.

She plays both a bamboo pan flute and a hide bound drum she crafted. She will perform for people she likes, and encourage others to beat the drum so she and her guests can dance. She has made several animals her pets: a spider monkey, a capybara, an armadillo, and a rare blue cockatoo (which was gifted to her by the staff)

SCP-7843 is capable of infecting animals with SCP-7843-A, with the standard effects. SCP-7843 frequently expresses loneliness, and keeps requesting to have other women live with her in her enclosure. Due to the nature of her condition, and her willingness to abuse the Staff's trust, these requests will continue to be denied into the near future.

SCP-7843-A: Anomalous vine plant organism, rooted in a nucleus within SCP-7843's womb. SCP-7843 identifies the organism as [redacted], a kind of supernatural fruit and flower budding vine plant native to SCP-7843-B. It is related to the eponymous [redacted] Tree.

SCP-7843-B: Unknown anomalous zone or dimension from which SCP-7843 and all instances of SCP-7843-C originate from. According to SCP-7843 it resembles a vast tropical island. SCP-7843 along with a "war party" arrived through a kind of portal, conjured up by her tribe's "witches". SCP-7843 has no knowledge of how to conjure this portal herself. Research is being conducted to open a stable portal into SCP-7843-B. It shares the same name as SCP-7843's deity, [redacted]. SCP-7843 believes the island itself is the body of her goddess.

SCP-7843-C: Members of the tribe from which SCP-7843 originates from. Typically armed with flint or bone tipped javelins, polearms, war clubs, and knives. They also carry shields resembling Zulu Nguni, blowguns, or bows. They wear large, wooden, cylindrical war-masks fringed with feathers as hair. Extremely dangerous; will attack male personnel on sight. Females will be ignored unless provoked, or abducted. MTF personnel are to watch all SCP facilities for their appearance. Neutralize as necessary. SCP-7843 names them as “Cruel Spears”, an elite warrior fraternity the tribe employs.

SCP-7843-D: Tribal fetish recovered from abduction attempt. [See INCIDENT 1]. Figurine is made of wood, resembling a naked woman with the head of a hyena, clutching a spear in one hand and a Nguni in the other. It is painted with red and black war stripes, similar to how SCP-7843 and SCP-7843-C decorate themselves.

INCIDENT 1: SCP-7843 and SCP-7843-C invaded a farmstead in [redacted], Kansas, July 25th 1999, 11:09 PM. SCP-7843 and four other comrades came to abduct [redacted] [redacted] who was <DATA EXPUNGED> years of age. How and why the tribe selected her as a target is unknown. The girl’s father, [redacted] [redacted], was alerted when the family dog woke him. The father burst into his daughter’s bedroom just as the amazons were binding and gagging her. SCP-7843-D was left on the girl’s pillow. Mr. [redacted] opened fire on the amazons with 12 gauge shotgun, then a 9mm pistol.

Dog was killed in the scuffle by a javelin. Mr. [redacted] sustained some cuts and bruises, but manged to neutralize the intruders and take SCP-7843 hostage. SCP-7843 was delivered into police custody at 12:22 AM. SCP Foundation was contacted at 1:45 AM. MTF was deployed and discreetly extracted SCP-7843, two hours later at 3:45 AM. News media ran fake story about Alien Abduction conspiracy theories as cover.

INCIDENT 2: Twelve units of SCP-7843-C ambushed Dr. [redacted], SCP-7843’s medical physician, at her home. Dr. [redacted]’s husband’s throat was cut. A silent alarm was tripped, presumably by Dr. [redacted]. MTF forces were deployed and a stand off ensued. SCP-7843-C units were all neutralized. Thirty minutes after the incident, Dr. [redacted] announced her resignation from the SCP Foundation by phone. Dr. [redacted] is estimated to have disappeared the same day. A missing persons report was filed three days later. One instance of SCP-7843-D was recovered from Dr. [redacted]’s bedroom pillow. All researchers who work with SCP-7843 must submit to a mandatory health screening before entry into any SCP facility.

INCIDENT 3: One hundred and seventy SCP-7843-C units attempted to assault Site-17 and free SCP-7843. MTF forces neutralized hostiles with extreme prejudice. Agent [redacted] made a snide remark, comparing the incident to the French's decisive victory over the Dahomey Amazons. Agent was reprimanded and ordered into six months sensitivity and unconscious bias training. After autopsies were performed, Dr. Whittle requested reclassifying SCP-7843-A as its own separate item. His appeal was denied.

End Notes

I was going through my back catalogue and found this. I wrote this over ten years ago now. Take it or leave it for what it is.

Please drop by the Archive and comment to let the creator know if you enjoyed their work!