I might've lingered in purgatory

Posted originally on the fanfiction.lol at https://fanfiction.lol/works/1634.

| | |
|---|---|
| Rating: | General Audiences |
| Archive Warning: | No Archive Warnings Apply |
| Category: | General (non relationship-focused) |
| Fandom: | The Beekeeper |
| Relationship: | Jessica Danforth/Wallace Westwyld |
| Characters: | Wallace Westwyld, Jessica Danforth, Derek Danforth |
| Additional Tags: | Drabble |
| Language: | English |
| Stats: | Published: 2026-11-10 Words: 114 Chapters: 1/1 |

I might've lingered in purgatory

by Melancholia

Summary

He cared about her, enough that he already knew that when she was ready to unleash hell fire on the man who killed her son he'd help

Relief flooded him when he knew Jessica was alive. No one told him anything for hours while he laid in a hospital bed.

He'd failed to keep Adam Clay away, he'd failed to keep Derek safe. His death was no great loss to him, but Jessica, he knew, would be devastated.

That was her weakness. That no good son of hers. Wallace's was her. She got her claws into when her husband had been alive. Ever since long even after they crashed and burned he cared for her.

Enough that he's ended up in this hospital bed, enough that when she comes to him looking for revenge, she will sooner or later. He'll help.

Please drop by the Archive and comment to let the creator know if you enjoyed their work!