A drop of amber

In a teeming pond

Two creatures caught within

Their endless fight left unfought

A drop of amber

In an endless world

Containing an end

To battles not yet fought

A small fire stone

Resting forever in a palm of a hand

Ready to burn

All that flies now and that ever had

Where will you go?

After people and beasts lose sight of you

Who will you bless?

When the war ravages all they once knew

A tiny drop of amber

On a thin golden chain

Holding the key

To whether our lives still remain
