Notes

Intrumoxiety Week Day 5: Music/Learning

"Roooooman! Guess whaaaaaat?"

Roman groaned "I'm trying to get ready Remus. What?"

"I was just wondering if we could ride in to class together."

Roman sighed deeply, expecting some weird joke or fucked up plan "And why's that?"

"Cause I'm in your class."

Please please please be a weird joke and not a fucked up plan.

"My class?"

"Yep"

"The music class"

"Yep"

"The one I'm teaching"

"Yep."

"At the community college"

"Yep."

"The one that I am teaching for the first time today and already feel like my nerves are shot!"

"Do I have to keep saying yep over and over and over and over and over and-"

"Stop!"

"Look." Remus handed Roman his schedule "Official and everything."

Roman snatched the paper from Remus, desperately trying to find a mistake. But there it was.
Music 2a-Intro to Singing, with Professor Prince, in room C285, Tues and Thurs, 1:30-2:45
"Whyyyyyyy?"

"Can't I show my baby brother some support?"

"We're twins-wait I WAS BORN FIRST!"

"Can't I show my elderly brother some support?"

"Oh my GOD!"

"So can we ride in together?"

"NO! You can find your own way there!"

"And here I thought you cared about the environment."

Roman huffed "fiiiiine."

Roman pulled his car into the staff parking lot "Ok, we're like half an hour early so I can prep. Go…do something. Anything. That isn't following me to my class."

Remus perked up.

"Within legal boundaries."

"Awwww. Fine. Bye prof."

"Bye."

Remus turned on his heel to walk in the exact opposite direction of Roman. He ended up climbing up a tree and dangling upside down for the half hour before realizing he should probably go to class.

Remus walked into the class and grinned at his brother that got such a deflated look when he saw him.

This was going great.

Of course annoying his brother was the whole reason he was here.

He didn't need a beginner singing class. Have you heard him? He's amazing.

He'll probably just mess around the first week or so, and then when he got bored he'll drop the class. Or maybe he'll come back for the final. It would be so funny if he missed the whole semester and then Aced the final. That would piss Roman off so much.

He scanned the room to see what poor souls would have to sit next to him today when he saw 2 guys that made Remus stop in his tracks.

The first guy, was wearing a blue collared shirt with a pink and gray striped sweater on top. He had round glasses with cat ears on the top of the lenses and was bubbly talking to the second guy.

The second guy looked like if you grabbed a cotton candy stick and dipped it into a hot topic instead of the fluff. Purple bangs, a diy jacket covered in purple patches, and black eyeliner smudged around his eyes. He was half-mindedly nodding along to whatever the first guy was saying.

Remus made his way over to sit in the desk that was behind the 2 of them, he grinned at the bubbly one when he instinctively turned around to smile at him in greeting.

"Hii. I'm Remus Prince."

"Wait, like Professor Prince?" The cutie in the cat glasses asked.

"Mhm. He's my much much much older brother."

The hottie in the hoodie raised an eyebrow "You two look the exact same age."

"Aw thank you."

"You're welcome?" Hottie glanced over at Cutie who just shrugged their shoulders.

"Well hi. It's nice to meet you. I'm Patton and this is my…friend? Virgil? We're still trying to figure labels out."

Virgil gave a 2 fingered salute at Remus "Hey"

Remus leaned on his hand, about to ask them more, when his very rude brother decided to rudely interrupt him by "needing to start his class". Making the 2 of them turn away from Remus and towards the front of the classroom.

Unfortunately for Roman's sanity, Remus decided he wasn't gonna miss a class after all.
